

Greg Moore, Executive Director
Kate Bickert, Director, Park Initiatives and Stewardship
Golden Gate National Parks Conservancy

September 9, 2013

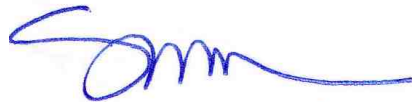

Dear Greg and Kate,

I hope this note finds you well. On behalf of Headlands Center for the Arts, I'm delighted to support the Golden Gate National Parks Conservancy's proposal for the Presidio Exchange and to be partnering with you on this exciting project. As a long time partner of the National Park Service and specifically the park's primary partner working in the realm of the contemporary arts, we're delighted to be part of something that will transform the role that arts, culture and creativity play within the powerful and truly unparalleled landscape of the Golden Gate.

Potential areas of programmatic partnership include joint residencies for contemporary artists, from both near and far and working across artistic disciplines, the commissioning of new and exciting art projects that respond to place, meaningful public engagement both in the arts and across sectors, through conversations, community dialogues, exhibitions, cross-field workshops and other formats, and more generally the exploration of the role that artists, the arts, culture and creativity can play in developing a new program from which future audiences can benefit.

As always, we are so pleased to work closely with you to develop these ideas and look forward to our continued conversations. Until then, please accept this letter as an indication of our support for your work and of our enthusiasm for our future collaboration.

With warm regards,

sharon maidenberg
Executive Director

HEADLANDS
CENTER FOR ARTS

944 Fort Barry
Sausalito, CA 94965

t. 415.331.2787
f. 415.331.3857

headlands.org